Topic - Mobile application development 101

We will review the mobile development tools and management suite of products, how they originated as open source and how they are packaged today.

We will show you how to get started, from downloading the components to running your first 'hello world' application, to simulating a mobile device.

The goal is for anyone who sits in this meeting to come away with the knowledge and confidence to begin to develop a mobile app.

Speaker – Parke Cummins

Park Cummins has worked in the IT industry for over thirty years. He has been with Ciber since 1997 focusing on IT infrastructure in support of ERP, security, cloud, and mobile application development.
